

Anne Z. Cooke: Bountiful Yountville: The Epic Journey Begins

huffingtonpost.com (4 hours ago) May 23, 2013

Anne Z Cooke

If California wines still baffle -- so many labels! -- you might want to spend a weekend in Yountville, on Route 29 in Napa Valley. A village by this city boy's standards, it's 12 blocks long and four blocks wide, perched on a bit of real estate smaller than 1200 acres. Washington Street bisects the town, and 3,480 happy souls depend on tourists and the wine that brings them there. City-bred and fed up with freeway traffic, I headed there... full story
