

POCONO RECORD

HOME NEWS SPORTS ENTERTAINMENT LIFESTYLE OPINION BUSINESS CLASSIFIEDS JOBS AUTOS REAL ESTATE

FEATURED » SUBMIT PHOTOS OR VIDEOS OBITUARIES LOCAL PHOTOS SAGE PIKE AND MONROE LIFE WEEKEND BLOGS BUSINESS SERVICES PHOTOS | EXPLORE »

NEWS NOW on affairs ... Readers youth wins at state 4-H Junior Horse Championship ... Clinton campaign mobilizes in Stroudsburg

TRAVEL Finding King Kamehameha: Charting a path to greatness

[Email] [Print] [Facebook] [Twitter] [LinkedIn] [Google+] [Pinterest] [Share] [Comments: 0] [Tweet: 0]

King Kamehameha lived out his last years in the thatched hut and Ahuena Heiau, now restored, in the bay next to the Courtyard King Kamehameha Kona Beach Hotel. (Steve Haggerty/TNS)

By Anne Z. Cooke
Tribune News Service

Posted Aug. 13, 2016 at 4:13 PM

KAILUA-KONA, Hawaii — "King Kamehameha fought lots of battles on this island," said Kahakahi'i, who was sitting cross-legged in the sun, carving what he described as a battle knife, when we stopped to watch him work.

"But there was no fighting here, not in the City of Refuge," said this docent, naked to the waist as a traditional warrior would have been, at the Pu'uuhonua o Honaunau National Historic Park, on the Big Island's south Kona Coast.

"This was a sacred place, a retreat where kahunas performed secret ceremonies," he explained to a group of visitors from Iowa who crowded around the thatched, Polynesian-style shelter to listen. "The king was a great general. But he came here to pray."

When the talk turns to famous generals, you could make the argument that King Kamehameha I, also called Kamehameha the Great _ who conquered the Hawaiian Islands between 1781 and 1810, was every bit as skilled as his better-known contemporary, George Washington.

f t r [Search Icon]

POCONO RECORD

COUPON OF THE WEEK
Oil Change Special $16.99
Up to 5 quarts of oil on most cars. Fully synthetic oil = $48.95...
International Muffler

SEE ALL ONLINE TODAY MORE >>
25% Off in Our Fabric Department; 100s of Bolts in Stock
American Ribbon and Crafts
25% Off in Our Ribbon & Craft Department - Whatever the holiday, we have supplies
American Ribbon and Crafts
Summer Special $30 Off All Completed Work
International Muffler
25% Off in Our Fabric Department; 100s of Bolts in Stock
American Ribbon and Crafts

Sales
Stroudsburg, PA, USA Pocono Record

DRIVERS - REGIONAL TRACTOR TRAILER
FLANDERS, NJ, USA Pocono Record Classified Ad

COUNTER HELP, WAIT STAFF
TANNERSVILLE, PA, USA Pocono Record Classified Ad

Landscape Crew Leader
East Stroudsburg, PA, USA Pocono Record Classified Ad

More Top Jobs

Unlike Washington, however, Kamehameha the man remains something of a mystery. Though the number of rival chiefs he defeated and the valleys and coastal villages where he pursued each campaign for weeks or months was legion, his reputation rests primarily on oral histories.

Burnished in the glow of the past, he's described today as charismatic, powerful, confident and a fair but autocratic leader. Beyond that, what little we know comes from the few foreign visitors who, after having met him, recorded his commanding presence, courteous hospitality and thoughtful intelligence. Indeed, the very qualities we sometimes despair of finding in today's leaders.

But there's another way to see this remarkable man and the culture and era in which he rose to power. Set aside a day to go where he went, to some of the places, parks and historic sites on the Big Island that mark his evolution from fiery youth to revered leader.

We hadn't expected to trace Kamehameha's footsteps when we flew into Kona International Airport, on the Big Island, and checked into the Courtyard King Kamehameha's Kona Beach Hotel, in Kailua-Kona. The Volcano National Park was first on our agenda.

But you can't walk into this hotel's lobby without spotting the wall-size mural of Kamehameha dressed in a simple pareo, surrounded by his chiefs in their robes, painted by Herb Kane, Hawaii's best known and most prolific artist. But what was it doing there?

"Because it shows this place right here, Kamakahonu Bay, the king's royal compound," said the desk clerk, pointing out the window toward the beach, where hotel guests splashed in the water.

And there on the edge of the bay was the thatched Polynesian hut on a rock platform, the restored Ahuena Heiau (sacred temple), as shown in the painting. Constructed in 812, this was Kamehameha's last home and spiritual center, a refuge from a vanishing culture. By 1819, when the great king died, most Hawaiians had adopted Christianity. But Kamehameha, firm to the last, vowed he would die as he lived.

Today the hotel grounds are the venue for the award-winning Island Breeze Luau, an outdoor dinner theater presenting Hawaiian styles over the decades on a raised stage. The guests, dining on "kalua pig" and other luau specialties, sit at family-style tables below. As night falls and the drummers and dancers chant, you can't help wondering if the king is still there, listening.

Kamehameha, born in north Kohala, on the Big Island (some say as early as 1740, others say 1758, the year that Halley's Comet appeared), was raised in the remote Waipio Valley. But it was on the Kona coast where he first showed his chops.

Twelve miles south of Kailua-Kona, by the coast road, turn west toward Kealahou Bay, where the young Kamehameha, accompanying his uncle, King Kalani'opu'u, first met Captain Cook in 1778 and again in 1779.

Soon invited aboard Cook's ship, Kamehameha looked around and quickly recognized that the strange newcomers' iron tools, knives, muskets and canons were far superior to stone clubs. The conclusion: the white men would someday make useful allies.

A mile farther south, near the present-day village of Ke'ei, is the site of the Battle of Moku'ohai, in the bay now called Moku'akae. Here, in 1782, Kamehameha defeated one of two hostile cousins, earning the support of Kona's leading chiefs and consolidating his control of north Kohala and the Waipio Valley.

Several miles farther south look for signs to the City of Refuge, Pu'uhonua o Honaunau, overlooking the ocean. A spiritual sanctuary, this was where criminals fleeing a death sentence were absolved of their crimes and where members of the ali'i (ruling class) — Kamehameha and others — could join secret prayer ceremonies.

Stop at the Visitors Center, then walk through the site to see traditional Hawaiian thatched shelters and cultural and craft demonstrations. At the heart of the site is the sacred heiau (temple), guarded by carved figures of Hawaii's many gods, and gawked at by the dozens of tourists that walk past every day.

TOP HOMES

- Lake Wallenpaupack, PA - $139,000 - ...

More Top Homes

» STAY INFORMED

Email NewsLetter

Sign Up Today

Sign up for our newsletter and have the top headlines from your community delivered right to your inbox.

▶ LOOK AT THIS

Powered by Newsmax.

More Americans Open Home Storage Gold IRA's in Record Numbers

How Doodle Videos Increase sales and Conversions By 3x

How Much Money Do You Really Get From A Reverse Mortgage?

Melissa McCarthy Stuns Hollywood by Dropping

For sites in the north, follow Kamehameha's footsteps for 35 miles from Kailua-Kona to the Kohala Coast and the Pu'uukohola Heiau National Historic Site, set aside to preserve one of Hawaii's largest heiau.

Dedicated to Kukailimoku, Kamehameha's family war god, the king built this enormous monolith in 1791, an offering in hopes of good fortune in the battles still to come. A perfect stack of countless rocks, carried to the site by thousands of workers, it was piled together without cement in less than a year, forming a giant polyhedron. To sweeten the gesture, the king also restored an adjacent, smaller and much older heiau, once used for human sacrifices.

With paths circling the hill, this spot is ideal for ocean views, photos, fresh air, and long or short walks. If you follow the path downhill through a shaded grove you'll come to tiny Pelekane Bay, where Kamehameha defeated his last Big Island enemy, another rival cousin. Learn more about it at the Visitors Center, staffed by informed rangers who sell history books, maps, charts, prints and souvenirs.

As for the Ahuena Heiau, at the Courtyard Kamehameha's Kona Beach Hotel, it is believed that when Kamehameha I died, a loyal follower prepared his bones according to an ancient ritual and hid them in a secret burial place nearby, most likely a cave somewhere along the coast.

Shortly after the king's death, his son and heir, Kamehameha II, a Christian, destroyed many of the sites and artifacts associated with the old religion. Not until many years later was the Ahuean Heiau finally restored.

As for Kona, the town, when the young Kamehameha became chief of Kona, he designated it as his seat of government. And it remained the capital of all the Hawaiian Island after Kamehameha became the sole ruler.

If you've got time to squeeze in one more site, visit the ancient village settlement, now an archaeological site, and the man-made fish ponds at the heart of Hawaiian cultural life, in Kaloko-Honokohau National Historical Park, near Kona. I had trouble finding the road, so ask for directions.

JUST THE FACTS

Visit www.nps.gov/puhe/learn/historyculture/kamehameha.html for more information. For tickets to the Island Breeze Luau, a dinner theater, call (808)329-2911. The venue is at 75-5660 Palani Road, Kailua-Kona, HI 96740.

The Courtyard King Kamehameha's Kona Beach Hotel is at 75-5660 Palani Road, Kailua-Kona, HI 96740. A three-star property, the hotel has restaurants, free parking, pool, spa, beach, shop and other amenities. Rates for two in a room vary according to the season. In September, rates range from $163-$214; in November, from $152-$203; during Christmas holidays, from $263-$343. At www.konabeachhotel.com.

Distributed by Tribune Content Agency, LLC.

OLYMPICS UPDATES: KAYLA HARRISON ON A POSSIBLE FUTURE IN MMA

55 lbs in 40 Days

Men, No Need for Viagra If You Do This

Vegas Says Goodbye To The Legendary Celine Dion: Read Why Here...

Jesus' Lost Words (Not in the Bible!)

"Cocktail" Drink Could Finally Be The Alzheimer's Cure

Barb Walters Sits Down With Dr Oz and Leaves Viewers Speechless

Jesus' Lost Words Stun Christians (Not in the Bible!)

» TOP CLICKS

POPULAR EMAILED

Argument leads to arrests Aug. 10, 2016

Former Pocono Township resort may become rehab center Aug. 13, 2016

Coolbaugh man, 19, charged in sex offense case involving girl, 11 Aug. 10, 2016

Tourists make a mess of Minisink Park and Brodhead Creek Aug. 10, 2016

Perseids to ignite across skies tonight in one of best meteor showers of 2016 Aug. 11, 2016

Kansas waterpark operates under limited state regulation Aug. 14, 2016

POCONOS DIRECTORY

Featured Businesses

Find Poconos Attractions

» Comment or view comments

Add your business here +

TOP VIDEO HEADLINES

of 3
2

Justin Bieber Holds Hands with Sofia

Severe t-storm warning

Major details revealed about new Star Trek...

Master tailor Felix Fermin hand-crafts...

TV GUIDE

The Fosters Sneak Peek: Callie's Investigation Lands Her in Hot Water

Let's Settle a Power Debate: Is James St. Patrick Actually a Terrib...

» READER REACTION

Login with:

Facebook

Google

Twitter

Follow

LinkedIn

Newest

REALTIME

Submit

0 Comments

» EVENTS CALENDAR

MON	TUE	WED	THU	FRI
SAT	SUN

Monday, August 15, 2016

Monroe County Image Awards All Day
Kalahari Resort & Convention Center

Vendors Needed for Holly Day Market in November!! All Day
STROUDSBURG UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

Bring on the Burgers and Cruisers Night 5:00 pm

f t r i

POCONO RECORD

FEATURED »

→ LOG IN

0 of 3 Premium Clicks used this month
NEWS NOW

f t r i e-edition

→ LOG IN

0 of 3 Premium Clicks used this month

PRINT + ONLINE SUBSCRIBER ACTIVATIO

POCONO RECORD

Connect with pocono

Reader Services

- Reader Services
- Home
- Subscriptions
- Subscriber Controls
- Contact Us
- Community Rules

Submissions

- Photos
- Events
- Letters to the Editor

Alerts

- Email Alerts
- RSS Feeds
- Text Alerts

Advertise

- Media Kit Home
- Products and Services
- Ad Rates

Stay Infor

Email

Sign up